March 2010

Notes from the Homeroom:

Following the barrage of snow, sleet and rain we experienced during the month of March, we are finding the adage, “in like a lion, out like a lamb,” to be delightfully true. Although with the worst of winter weather behind us, we look forward to spring.

March leaves us with many fond experiences and remembrances all its own. For instance, this month saw the coming of the Scholastic Book Fair. Many students worked hard to earn tokens/points and had the opportunity to purchase books and learning materials that interested them. Other students participated in the “open mic” competition that gave them the opportunity to show off their skills behind the microphone. For others, our 400 Cluster activity day was a fantastic opportunity for fun as two of the classrooms in the 400 Cluster hosted a spirited “80’s Dance Party.” On that same day, the LHS basketball teams concluded a successful season, playing in the league championship tournament.

Mixed with all the fun and opportunities for amusement was a real commitment on the part of students to continue to work toward the important goals they and their families continue to pursue. We continue to be grateful for the wonderful opportunity and privilege we have been granted to work with your child and we diligently strive each day to make their experience here life changing and significant.

Thank you!
